Prisoners Go To Pen.
Deputy Sheriffs Will Doty and Currey Robinson took to the penitentiary last Friday two prisoners convicted at the last term of the Garrard circuit court and who are to serve from one to five years each; they were Bob Blythe convicted of breaking into the depot at Paint Lick and Homer Reid who broke into the store of Mr. R. S. Brown in Lancaster. Both were colored.

Right Man In Right Place.

Clinton B. Bastin was over from Hustonville Sunday to see the home folks. Clinton is making things hum in the local telephone office at Hustonville. He is the efficient manager and is rapidly bringing the service up to a high standard. He has a warm spot in his heart for home people as was evinced by his bringing us a nice order for a telephone directory and other job work.

Prominent Revenue Man.

Judge R. A. Burdsidge, the well known Internal Revenue man, was in town yesterday looking after some business in collector Cooper's office. His duties call him to every part of Kentucky and most of Tennessee. He is just unearthing a case at Owensboro where some prominent distillers will be hauled over the coals and about ninety thousand dollars have to be paid over to Uncle Sam.—Dahlville Messenger.

In The County Court.

The will of the late Capt. Samuel M. Duncan was admitted to probate. He left all of his property to his sister, Miss Jennie Duncan.

The Will of Mr. M. S. Thompson was admitted to probate. J. E. Robinson was named as executor and qualified as such.

The will of Mr. A. C. Robinson was offered for probate, but owing to the absence of one of the attesting witnesses, Mr. W. R. Cook, and the necessity of the going through with some legal formalities, the matter was adjourned until January 29th, by which time the deposition of Mr. Cook can be taken, when the will may be admitted to probate.

Card Of Thanks.

We desire to express our sincere gratitude to the kind friends and neighbors, for their kindness during our great sorrow.

Again the Peoples Tobacco Warehouse Reaches the Above High Prices for a Basket of Tobacco.

The Market Opened Up Brisk for the Week—The Tonnage Is Expected To Be Heavy This Week If The Present Weather Keeps Up—Prices Are Running So High That The Sellers Are Anxious to Reach the Market.

The People's Tobacco Warehouse breaks open extra strong Monday with the outlook for the rest of the week exceptionally good. The best basket of tobacco sold for 37½ cents per pound, and it was a fine color grade.

The bidding was spirited throughout the whole sale. Good tobacco is certainly bringing all that it is worth this year and all the sellers are delighted with the prices their tobacco is bringing, even if it is not of the best grade, the prices have been good and satisfactory to the farmers.

Col. W. J. Finch of North Carolina, the versatile auctioneer for the Peoples Tobacco Warehouse Co. in Danville either has some hypnotic influence or else he is a wonderfully popular man, for he certainly succeeds in getting splendid prices for the weed which passed under his hammer. This week he succeeded in obtaining the unprecedented price of 37½ cents per pound for some of the consignments. We are inclined to ascribe his success to his wonderful popularity, alike with the growers and buyers, anyway he is obtaining splendid prices.

Charity.

Charity is a virtue of which we hear very little except when it is brought to our notice by some peculiarly distressing demand for it, or some stringent state of circumstances, such as instance as the recent distressingly severe weather, during which, but for charity some within our confines would have suffered. And yet charity is a necessary adjunct to Christianity, one can lay but small claim to being a Christian unless he be charitable. "And now abideth faith, hope and charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity". The word charity does not mean the giving of alms alone, there is charity of word as well as of deed, and there is no man more charitable than he who spreads the broad mantle over the short comings of his neighbor, who makes allowances for his discrepancies and seeks to point out to him his wrong doing in a kindly way rather than censure him. Charity "rejoiceth not in iniquity", and while it condemns that iniquity, it seeks to remedy it rather than to make it worse by continued censure. No good ever came of rehearsing to every one we meet the errors of your fellow man, the error by constant rehearsal becomes more grievous in the eyes of the world. No more uncharitable person exists than the gossip, who goes about retailing the misfortunes and short comings of his fellowmen; this class of people may donate much of his worldly goods to the relief of suffering and distress, and yet so long as he continues to talk ill of his neighbors, he is lacking in charity.

In the literal meaning of the word,

LOCATES IN BRYANTSVILLE.

Dr. Bradley Montgomery who has been practising medicine at Paint Lick has decided to locate at Bryantsville. Dr. Montgomery is a son of the elder Dr. Montgomery, who resided in the Cartersville section, and who was one of the best known and most highly respected citizens of that locality. Following in the footsteps of his father, the young Dr. graduated in medicine a few years ago and has been temporarily located at Paint Lick until he could find a suitable location. The people of Bryantsville will find in Bradley Montgomery a clever affable gentleman and a good physician, and we predict for him unmeasured success in his new home.

WE NEED THE MONEY.

The Record is sending out statements to its subscribers who are in arrears. We are doing this not to annoy any one, but because we need the money. It takes money to run a printing office just the same as it does any other business. We have obligations which must be met, our office force must be paid and paid promptly, and in order to do this we must keep up our collections. You may think the small amount you owe does not amount to much, and it does, but all these small amounts placed together constitute our income, and we depend upon them to make ends meet.

TROUBLE FOR PRODUCE DEALER.

During the recent extremely cold weather Mr. H. B. Northcott the local produce dealer has had more than his share of trouble incident to the weather conditions; a car of eggs which he shipped to the city markets was frozen en route, thereby entailing considerable loss; on several occasions, wagons which he sent out through the country to gather up produce encountered mishaps in the shape of slick roads and frozen creeks, thereby delaying them and causing their contents to freeze, and to cap the climax, in the section of the county where there is always the greatest quantity of eggs produced there is at present a near famine, in the Buckeye section where he usually gets at least 25 cases of eggs, he is only able to get one or two cases at a time.

FIRES IN COUNTY.

On last Thursday morning about ten o'clock passers by discovered the roof of Mr. Russell R. Denton's house at Hackley in this county to be in flames, they hastened to the house and notified the occupants, they being only Mr. Denton and his wife, and both were unaware of their impending danger.

The fire when discovered had gained such headway as to be beyond control, and all that could be done was to get out a few household goods on the lower floor. The house was burned to the ground. Mr. Denton carried insurance to the amount of $1500. on the house and $300. on his furniture, which will nothing like reimburse him for his loss.

This is the second handsome residence this clever gentleman has lost by fire in the last twenty years. He will rebuild in the spring.

AN INNOCVATION.

A merry party from Bryantsville consisting of Messrs R. I. Burton, wife, Chas Dean and wife, N. P. Cobb and wife, M. O. Kennedy and wife, and Misses Elizabeth Bryant, Florence Ballard and M. E. Farley formed a "hay ride" to Lancaster on Wednesday last week. The frolic was originally intended to be a sleigh ride, but the weather prevented, and so they concluded to turn it into a hay ride. The merry party took supper at the Kangaroo, after which they attended the picture show. By this time it was raining in torrents, but nothing daunted, they improvised a cover for the wagon by means of a large tarpaulin and returned home dry and comfortable. We are glad to see our friends from out in the county adopting this manner of recreation, and hope that the visit will not only be repeated by this crowd, but that they will get others to join them, and that their example will be followed by residents of other parts of the county. There is always some attraction here to interest them, and the people will welcome and do all they can to make their visits pleasant. Such excursions have a tendency to cement more strongly the social bonds between the people of the town and county.

LOCAL CHAPTER U. D. C. HOLD LEE AND JACKSON MEMORIAL SERVICE.

The Mary Walker Price Chapter of the U. D. C. held a Lee and Jackson Memorial Service on the afternoon of the 19th, at the home of the Mesdames Frisbie. The programme was beginning the occasion opening with devotional exercises conducted by the present Mrs. Fred P. Frisbie.

A very entertaining paper on Robert E. Lee was written by Mrs. J. L. Riley, but in the absence of Mrs. Riley read by Mrs. E. C. Gaines; a review of Mary Johnson's book, "The Long Roll", including Mrs. Jackson's indignant protests on the novelists' travesty of her husband's character, the review read by Mrs. Mattie P. Frisbie; a poem on the two Confederate Generals rendered by Mrs. B. F. Hudson; appropriate musical selections by Miss Katie Lee Denny; an impromptu feature in the way of an old fashioned Southern dance performed by the oldest widow and widower present, who were inspired to Terpsichorean steps by Dixie strains. The entertainment closed with a dainty luncheon course.

LOST YOUR STORE TEETH?

Uncle Irvine Miller, a worthy old colored man brought to this office a set of false teeth which he found. They do not belong to any one in this office as the entire force has good teeth of their own, with the exception of the assistant Editor, who has his fastened in, so if these teeth are claimed and proven they will be delivered to the owner if they will call at this office and leave a suitable reward for the finder.

HELD IN $500. BOND.

The examining trial of Thomas Ralston, who killed George Finley in a difficulty at Paint Lick on January 6th, was held before County Judge A. D. Ford on last Saturday and Ralston was admitted to bond in the sum of $500, to await the action of the grand jury at the next term of the Garrard circuit court. Ralston gave the bond required. The defendant was represented by Judge Lewis L. Walker and Messrs Jas. I. Hamilton and H. Clay Kauffman, while County Attorney Jos. E. Robinson appeared for the Commonwealth. Mrs. Rodney Griggs, sister of Mr. Ralston, who was accidentally shot while endeavoring to stop the difficulty, is recovering rapidly.

MISS HIGGINS ANNOUNCES.

The announcement of Miss Jennie Higgins for the democratic nomination for County School Superintendent appears in this issue of the Record. Miss Higgins' efficiency as a Superintendent has been fully demonstrated during her present term of office and during a part of an unexpected term which she served in place of Miss Mattie Dunn. She has given splendid satisfaction to both the public and the teachers connected with the schools of the county, and if the democrats of the county should deem it wise to place her in nomination to succeed herself, we feel confident she would continue the good work and keep the schools up to the high standard which she has rendered material aid in bringing them.

HAS MANY FRIENDS HERE IN HIS OLD HOME.

The following short account of the wedding of Mr. Ed. G. Doty is taken from the Reeves County Record.

Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in the Pastors study at the Baptist church, with a few relatives and special friends present, Rev. J. B. Cole said the important word that made Mr. Ed. Doty and Miss Laura Stiles man and wife. This young happy couple have many friends who wish them all the joy life can bring.

Miss Stiles is the niece of Mrs. W. C. Welbourne and is a very charming and accomplished young lady.

The Record extends sincerest wishes and congratulations and hope that the good leap year will bring happiness to many of our lonely bachelor friends.

Ed's many Lancaster friends congratulate him on his retirement from single cussedness, and hope that ere long they will have the pleasure of meeting the lady of his choice.

There was never a more popular boy than Ed. Doty left Lancaster, genial, open hearted and a good companion he made friends with every one whom he came in contact. He is a son of Capt. J. A. Doty of this place and is related to many of the best families of the county, and everyone who knows him will rejoice over the fact that he is making a success in the lone star state. He is in the land and live stock business, being the secretary of the W. D. Hudson Land and Live Stock Co., one of Pecos' most thriving concerns. The president, Mr. W. D. Hudson, is a nephew of Mr. Wm. A. Todd Sr. of Paint Lick section of this county,

GIVE FREELY.

It is very often a source of complaints among our good citizens that the demands are too great upon them for their help and support towards objects of charity and public interests, which are they admit in themselves but pecuniarily, too draining on the system.

That it is a great thing to live to-day all agree. The accumulation of knowledge and civilization of the ages has been the legacy of the past, it drew the hearts blood of its heroes somewhere sometime. And now must we not pass on and join in this world wide spirit of progress?

Did it ever occur to you that the harmony of nature, the brotherhood of man, and the Fatherhood of God turns upon the one word, give. The flowers give out their sweet perfume, their buds and blossoms, the birds their happy song, not singly but in the fullness of their power, and shall not man, attuned to nature give out of the richness of his soul. Give! Give from the heart give something that counts, a part of yourself, your intellect, your cheer, your sympathy, your smiles, your tears, and the good book it will return unto you as "the bread cast upon the waters".

In childhood's memory is cherished the beautiful old Greek legend, the story of Philemon and Baucus. Two travelers, weary and worn with the heat of the day at dusk were passing through a village. They went from house to house but no door was opened unto them; finally they paused at the humble cot, the home of Philemon and Baucus, who bade them enter and out of their scant store, offered them hospitality the one pitcher of milk. The strangers drained their glasses, and lo! as oft the pitcher was emptied was it filled again and again; the scales fell from the old people's eyes and they beheld the radiance and the glory of the celestial guests. Oh! the joy of giving. It opens to us new beauties, it gives us a clearer vision, it enriches the soul of the giver, and in some small measure we become more like Him, the giver of all good gifts.

DEATHS.

Clark

Eugene, the bright little nine year old son of Mr and Mrs. Sammie J. Bourne on the Danville pike last Saturday night of diphtheria, and the remains were interred in the Lancaster cemetery on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Clark is a son of Mr. William Clark formerly of this county and he married a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bourne. The bereaved parents who now reside in Fayette county have a host of friends and relatives here who deeply sympathize with them in the loss of their many little son.

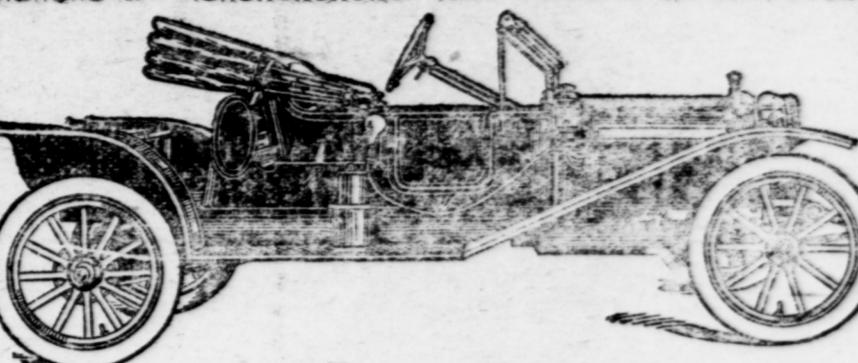

Mason.

Hugh L. Mason was born in Lancaster Kentucky January 1st, 1853 and died in Chicago 11th, January 1919 of a acute Bright's Disease. He was the second son of James B. and Elizabeth Logan Mason. At the age of 16 years Jan 1st, 1869 he entered the office of Col. E. D. Kennedy as deputy clerk of Garrard Circuit Court where he remained two years, and in April 1871 he secured through the influence of Hon. Allen A. Burton a position in the Treasury Department at Washington and while there under the advice of said Burton, he studied law and attended the night law school at Georgetown University and graduated at said school June 1875, he had as instructors and advisers in law Jas H. Embry and Samuel F. Miller associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. In September 1875 he removed to Chicago and engaged in the practice of law which he followed until his death. He was successful in his profession and had a large practice until 20 years before his death he engaged largely in the real estate business on his own responsibility. On October 9th, 1888 he married Miss Susan H. Shelby of Lincoln county who died several years ago. They had no children. He leaves his mother and three brothers, W. B., Geo. T. and Benjamin Mason to mourn his death. Peace to his ashes.

After funeral service at the grave by Rev. F. M. Tinder on Sunday afternoon his remains were placed at rest in the Lancaster cemetery.

WISERMAN LANDS PLUM.

After a fight which has lasted for three years, during which time Senator Bradley has stood solidly for him and refused to accept either substitute or compromise, Winston Welch Wiseman has been appointed Internal Revenue Collector for the eighth district to succeed the present incumbent, J. Sherman Cooper. Mr. Wiseman will succeed to the office on Feb. 1st. He was nominated by the president on Tuesday of this week and his nomination confirmed by the senate the same day.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—The story opens on Long Island near New York City, where Miss Emily Ffrench, a relative of the famous "Mercury" automobile, loses her way. The car is stopped, and the clever Dick Ffrench is too muddled with drink to direct it aright. They meet another car which is driven by a professional racer named Lestrange. The two fix the French how to proceed homeward, but seeing that his cousin is in the company to accompany her, forcibly detains Dick Ffrench, for which the young lady is thankful.

CHAPTER II.—Ethan Ffrench has disappeared, and his son Dick has appeared. He is strong and old and tells Emily that she is the only one of the family to whom he can leave his wealth. He informs her that she will be the one to have her marry Dick, who could carry on the business. Dick is a good-natured, but irresponsible青年.

CHAPTER III.—It appears that a part of Ethan Ffrench's wealth, an estate with the "Mercury" auto events, has engaged Lestrange, and at the Ffrench factory Emily encounters the young man. They plan to meet again when Dick comes along and recognizes the young racer.

CHAPTER IV.—Dick likes the way Lestrange ignores their first meeting when he appeared to a disastrous. They become friends. Lestrange informs Emily that he will try to make something out of her indifferent cousin and educate him as an automobile expert.

CHAPTER V.—Dick undertakes his brother's school and the tutelage of Lestrange. Dick is sheer hell and in making a race meets with an accident. Lestrange sticks to him bravely, and Dick confesses that his friend loves Emily disclaiming any intention of marrying her.

CHAPTER VI.—Lestrange comes upon Emily in the moonlit garden of the French home. Under an impulse he comes to her, kisses her, and she leaves him, confessing in her own heart that she returns his love.

CHAPTER VII.—The uncle of Emily, learning of her attachment to Lestrange, informs her that the man is his disbursed son, whom she has never known, having adopted by him. He claims that his son ran away with a dissolute actress. Emily goes to acknowledge him, and orders Emily to think of Dick as her future husband.

CHAPTER VIII.

Six o'clock was the hour set for the start of the Beach race. And it was just seventeen minutes past five when Dick Ffrench, hanging in a frenzy of anxiety over the paddock fence circling the inside of the mile oval, uttered something resembling a howl and rushed to the gate to signal his recreant driver. From the opposite side of the track Lestrange waved gay return, making his way through the officials and friends who pressed around him to shake hands or slap his shoulder caressingly, jesting and questioning, calling directions and advice. A brass band played noisily in the grand-stand, where the crowd heaved and surged; the racing machines were roaring in their camps.

"What's the matter? Where were you?" cried Dick, when at last Le strange crossed the course to the central field. "The cars are going out now for the preliminary run. Rupert's nearly crazy, snarling at everybody, and the other man has been getting ready to start instead of you."

"Well, we can get ready," smiled Lestrange. "Keep cool, Ffrench; I've got half an hour and I could start now. I'm ready."

He was ready; clad in the close-fitting khaki costume whose immaculate daintiness gave no hint of the certainty that before the first six hours ended it would be a wreck of yellow dust and oil. As he paused in running an appraising glance down the street-like row of tents, the white-clothed driver of a spotless white car shot out on his way to the track, but halted opposite the latest arrival to stretch a cordial hand.

"I hoped a trolley car had bitten you," he shouted. "The rest of us would have more show if you got lost on the way, Darling."

The boyish driver at the next tent looked up as they passed, and came grinning over to give his clasp.

"Get a move on; what you been doing all day, dear child? They've been givin' your manager sal volante to hold him still." He nodded at the agitated Dick in ironic commiseration.

"Go get out your car, Darling; I want to heat you," chaffed the next in line.

"Strike up the band, here comes a driver," sang another, with an entrancing French accent.

Laughing, retorting, shaking hands with each comrade rival, Lestrange went down the row to his own tent. At his approach a swarm of mechanics from the factory stood back from the long, low, gray car, the driver who was to relieve him during the night and day ordeal slipped down from the seat and unmasked.

"He's here," announced Dick superfluously. "Rupert—where's Rupert? Don't tell me he's gone now! Le strange!"

But Rupert was already emerging from the tent with Lestrange's gauntlets and cap, his expression a study in the sardonic.

"It hurts me fierce to think how you must have hurried," he observed. "Did you walk both ways, or only all three? I'm no Eve, but I'd give a snake an apple to know where you've been all day."

"Would you?" queried Lestrange provokingly, clasping the goggles before his eyes. "Well, I've spent the last two hours on the Coney Island beach, about three squares from here, watching the kiddies play in the sand. I didn't feel like driving just then. It was mighty soothing, too."

Rupert stared at him, a dry unwilling smile slowly crinkling his dark face.

"Maybe, Darling," he drawled, and turned to make his own preparations. Fascinated and useless, Dick looked on at the methodical fury of the next few moments; until Lestrange was in his seat and Rupert swung in beside him. Then a gesture summoned him to the side of the machine.

"I'll run in again before we race, of course," said Lestrange to him, above the deafening noise of the motor. "Be around here; I want to see you."

Rupert leaned out, all good-humor once more as he pointed to the machine.

"Got a healthy talk, what?" he exulted.

The car darted forward.

A long round of applause welcomed Lestrange's swooping advent on the track. Handkerchiefs and scarfs were waved; his name passed from mouth to mouth.

"Popular, ain't he?" chuckled a mechanic next to Dick. "They don't forget that Georgia trick, no sir."

It was not many times that the cars could circle the track. Quarter of six blew from whistles and klaxons, signal flags sent the cars to their camps for the last time before the race.

"Come here," Lestrange beckoned to Dick, as he brought his machine shuddering to a standstill before the tent. "Here, close—we've got a moment. Here, close—will they fill tanks?"

He unhooked his goggles and leaned over as Dick came beside the wheel, the face so revealed bright and quiet in the sunset of glow.

"One never can tell what may happen," he said. "I'd rather tell you now than chance your feeling afterward that I didn't treat you quite kindly in keeping still. I hope you won't take it is my father did; we've been good chums, you and I. I am your cousin, David Ffrench."

The moment disclosed no words. Dick leaned against the car, absolutely limp.

"Of course, I'm not going back to Frenchwood. After this race I shall go to the Duplex company; I used to be with them and they've wanted me back. Your company can get along without me, now all is running well—indeed, Mr. Ffrench has dismissed me." His lip bent a little more firmly. "The work I was doing is in your hands and Bailey's; see it through. Unless you too want to break off with me, we'll have more time to talk over this."

"Break off!" Dick straightened his back. "Richard Ffrench?" he verified. "Sign, please."

The message was from New York.

"All coming down," Dick read. "Limousine making delay. Wire me at St. Royal of race. Bailey."

Fa from pleased, young Ffrench hurriedly wrote the desired answer and gave it to the boy to be sent. But he thrust the yellow envelope into his pocket before turning to the tent where Lestrange was drinking cheap black coffee while an impatient young surgeon hovered near.

The hour's rest was characteristicly spent. Washed, bandaged, and refreshed, Lestrange dropped on a cot in the back of the tent and pushed a roll of motor garments beneath his head for a pillow. There he intermittently spoke to his companion of whatever the moment suggested; listening to every sound of the race and interspersing acute comment, starting up whenever the voice of his own machine hinted that the driver was disobeying instructions or the shrill klaxon gave warning of trouble. But through it all Dick gathered much of the family story.

"I don't know what you call fit. He says he is. His hands are blistered already, his right arm has been bandaged twice where he hurt it pulling me away from the gear-cutter yesterday, and he's had three hours' rest out of the last eleven. See that heap of junk over there; that's where the Alan car burned up last night and

"A fat cow, and it moored," he strolled the pillow into a more comfortable position. "Is that our car running in? No, it's just passing. If Frank doesn't wreck my machine, I'll get this race. And then, the same week, my chum and roommate ran away with a Doradora girl of some variety show and married her. I was romantic only at twenty-one, so I helped him through it. He was wealthy and she was pretty; it seemed to fit. I believe they've stayed married ever since, by the way. But somehow the reporters got affairs mixed and published me as the bridegroom. Have you got a cigar? I smoke about three times a year, and this is one of them. Yes, there was a fine scene when I went home that night, a Broadway melodrama. I lost my temper easier then; by the time my father and uncle gave me time to speak, I was too angry to defend myself and set them right. I supposed they would learn the truth by the next day, anyhow. And I left home for good in a dinner coat and rags with something under ten dollars in odd change. What's that?"

"That," was the harsh alarm of the official klaxon, coupled with the cry of countless voices. The ambulance gone, changed as Lestrange sprang to his feet and reached the door.

"What car?" he called.

Rupert answered first:

"No ours. Number eight's burning up after a smash on the far turn."

"Jack's car," identified Lestrange, and stood for an instant. "Go flag Frank; I'll take the machine again myself. It's one o'clock, and I've got to win this race."

Rupert passed a glance over the deserted track.

"I guess my sentiment-tank has given out," he sweetly acknowledged. "The Mercury factory sounds pretty good to me, Darling. And I guess we can make a joy ride out of living, on any track, if we enter for it."

"I guess we can," laughed David French. "Get in opposite Emily. We're going home to try."

It's the best proof, for it comes from Lancaster.

Mrs. J. W. Pumphrey, Danville St., Lancaster, Ky., says: "My experience with Doan's Kidney Pills leads me to say that they live up to the claims made for them. I suffered a great deal from backache and could not sleep well. On several occasions my back became so painful and weak that I was unable to attend to my housework. Being advised to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial, I did so, procuring a supply at Frisbie's Drug Store. They helped me from the first and I was soon relieved."

In the Land Of Flowers.

The Volusia county Record published at Deland Fla. under the caption of "Important Real Estate Deal," has the following to say of two well known Garrard county boys:-

Messrs. O. T. Wallace and J. S. Haselden, representing the United Realty & Auction Company, of Wilmington N. C., sub-division specialists, are in the city and have taken charge of the beautiful property of Mr. J. W. Smock, known as "Woodland Park," lying in the heart of the city, between Rich, Wisconsin and Clara Avenues a delightful location, and will sell the lots to the highest bidder on January 30th, at 10:30 A. M. This Company has been successful in handling high-class sub-divisions, and the secret of their success has been in selling every lot offered to the highest bidder, without reserve or by bid.

Messrs. Haselden and Wallace are very enthusiastic in their praise of Deland, and say it is their intention to make it their headquarters for their Florida business this season. They will advertise the sale in all the surrounding towns and country, and it is their intention to secure as large an outside attendance at the sale as possible, so that the sale of property will not only stimulate local investment and building, but will be the means of inducing outsiders to cast their lots with us, just as hundreds have done in the past; and it is well known fact that once we secure them, they find Deland such a delightful place in every respect that they at once become one of us for good and all. The rapid growth of our city and its brilliant future prospects, coupled with the high character of the property in question, make this sale a very attractive one, to both the home-builders and the investor. Unusual prizes will be offered as an advertising feature.

Peyton T. Parke, a resident of this city 43 years, died at his home on East Miami street, last Saturday, December 23, 1911, after a long sickness. Stomach trouble, with complications, was the cause of his demise. Funeral services were held at the home Sunday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock by Rev. Olin E. Fox, pastor of the Christian church. Members of the I. O. O. F. and Rebecca lodges held short services at the grave. Mr. Parker had been a member of the Odd Fellows 42 years.

Peyton T. Parker was born at Lancaster, Garrard county, Kentucky, April 21st, 1853, and moved with his parents to Decatur, Illinois. He was married there to Miss Aner Williams on March 14th, 1861, and to this union four children were born, two of whom died when quite young. The surviving children are: Noble M. Parker, of St. Joseph, Mo., and Mrs. George M. Light of this city. Mr. Parker, with his family, moved to Paola, April 2, 1868, and since that time has resided in Olin, Mo., and two years later he married Miss Mattie Steward, who survives him. He leaves four brothers-T. W. Parker, of Sharpsburg, Illinois, and John M. Parker, William Parker and George M. Parker, of this city.

For over a quarter of a century, Mr. Parker was employed at the W. T. Potts grocery store, in this city.

Mr. Parker came of a rugged family-rugged in body and in true worth. His career here was quiet and useful. He worked faithfully and stepped in man's way. His ever act was that of a gentleman, and when he met misfortune he faced it with the same bravery that characterized him in his daily work. In his sickness, which lasted two years, off and on, there was no complaint. Each day found him doing the best he could, setting a good example before the world. His children have proved an honor to the name and his whole life stands forth as exemplary.

Stanford To Have Fair.

The Knights of Phythias Lodge of Stanford is to stand sponsor for a fair in Stanford this season. They have already organized and elected clever Jim Woods president and James Cummings secretary. These gentlemen are well acquainted with the proper method of conducting a fair and will pull of a good one. They have not decided on dates as yet, but will choose such as will not conflict with surrounding countries. Until the snow leaves and we can get out and work our track Lancaster will not do anything toward the pulling off of the "biggest and best" in the Blue grass, but we of course reserve our regular July dates, and in due time will begin preparations for giving the best fair in our history.

Galvani.

Galvani the hypnotist gave three performances to large audiences at the opera house this week. If there is a person in Lancaster that is at all skeptical as to the powers of a hypnotist, if he had attended these performances and seen the work of Galvani and the peculiar antics which he caused some of our citizens to perform, his doubts would certainly have been removed.

The man is certainly a wonder and is pronounced by people who know to be as good as anyone in the business. The performances were clean and entertaining, the subjects were treated kindly and he only made them do ridiculous things which kept the audience in an uproar of laughter during the performances.

FOR SALE:—or will feed seven hundred shocks of fodder and 2 or 3 big straw ricks. J. B. Leavell, Bryantsville, Ky.

Monday was a good court day in point of the number of stock on the market and people in town. There were a great many mules and plug horses here and everyone was anxious to sell, the scarcity and high price of feed forcing them on the market, but there were few buyers and consequently but few changed hands.

That Kentucky will be released from quarantine, with the National Government has placed on sheep in this State by March 1st, is now certain. Dr. A. J. Payne, of the United States Government who has charge of a corps of government inspectors at work in this State, stated recently that a re-inspection of the sheep infected with scabies would be started Feb. 1st, and that by March 1st, he thought nearly every county in the state would be released from the government quarantine.

W. B. Burton went over to Lexington last week and bought of Charley Thompson eleven mules, he selected this number from a large number which Mr. Thompson had on hand, they were unusually fine animals and Mr. Burton paid $220. per head for them. Mr. Burton shipped on Monday a car load of mules consisting of 22 head to Wilson Liv. Stock Co. at Wilson N. C., the bunch having cost him on an average of $210. per head. The Lexington purchase was included in this shipment.

Pale Faces

Pale-faced, weak, and shaly women—who suffer every day with womanly weakness—need the help of a gentle tonic, with a building action on the womanly system. If you are weak—you need Cardui, the woman's tonic, because Cardui will act directly on the cause of your trouble. Cardui has a record of more than 50 years of success. It must be good.

Take CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

Mrs. Effie Graham, of Willard, Ky., says: "I was so weak I could hardly go. I suffered nearly every month for 3 years. When I began to take Cardui, my back hurt awfully. I only weighed 99 pounds. Not long after, I weighed 115. Now, I do all my work, and am in good health." Begin taking Cardui, today.

The postoffice department is hot on the trail of a lot of Florida real estate swindlers on the ground that they have been using the mails to defraud. Pitiful they did not get after the sharks in this and some other states six or eight years ago, but investors should feel gratified that the department has got action even at the eleventh hour.

Cornstalks add considerably to the soil in way of humus, which tends to improve its physical condition, but their value in this regard is far less than their value as a ration for dairy cows and steers when cut at the proper time, properly cured and fed. More than this, all the fertilizing value the stalks had is preserved in the manure which accumulates when they are fed.

The growers of timothy are in "clover" this year, due to the fact that they are receiving all the way from $10 to $12 per hundred for their seed. The shortage, due to the past summer's drought, is responsible for the high prices. In several instances we have noted lately that a crop of timothy seed alone is netting owners from $20 to $40 per acre.

On most farms perhaps the lighter fowls, such as Leghorns, are kept, being plenty of range for them and opportunity to pick up much food by foraging. However, others keep heavy breeds, like the Brahmans, and are equally satisfied with them. They contend that they are better winter layers, while the cockerels marketed at five months old fetch 50 cents instead of 30 cents apiece.

A London physician recently drank a glass of Tennessee river water said he had contained 250,000,000 typhoid fever germs, but did not seem to suffer any ill effects from it. The physician will be pardoned for the inference that immunity from the disease may have been due to an overdose.

A point decidedly in favor of the silo is its capacity for holding large amounts of fodder in a limited area. A silo having a size of 14 by 30 feet will receive into its capacities may all the way from fifteen to twenty acres of corn, depending, of course, on the size and stand. In this one point of economy in storage space the silo is worthy of consideration.

Some medical authorities still stoutly maintain that bovine tuberculosis is not transferable to human beings, but even more authorities contend that it is and point to numerous instances where the milk from tubercular cows has caused the disease in those drinking it. The individual has the choice of holding whichever view he pleases, but if he is sensible he will err on the safe side.

The several railroads running through the western counties of Kentucky have offered to transport seed wheat to the farmers there free of charge in order to help them out of the straits into which they have been forced as a result of the protracted drought. As a further aid bankers and others are loaning on easy terms money with which the seed wheat may be purchased.

In some localities it has been found that Canada thistles multiply only by the root system and not by seed. This seems to be due in part at least to the fact that there are two types of plants, one bearing male or staminate blossoms and the other female or pistillate. Neither will produce seed by itself, and the pistillate blossoms will do so only when there are staminate blossoms near by to fertilize them.

Were the facts known doubtless many a mysterious barn burning might be traced to spontaneous combustion of mows of clover hay stored away without proper curing. In such cases the fire is the result of a fermentative chemical reaction similar to that which takes place in a manure pile. A close watch should be kept on all mows of clover hay where there is a possibility that such a condition might exist.

White is now $8 per hundredweight in New York city and on the climb. While it is the contention of the trust that this high price is due to a big shortage in the world's crop, it is contended by others who claim to know that there has never been a larger amount of sugar afloat in the channels of trade than now. The layman has the sneaking opinion that the trust has us all on the hip and is making hay while the sun shines—fines exacted from it in recent government suits and for a nest egg against the rainy day of prospective tariff revision. But, whatever the causes, the holdup is making political gunpowder and dynamite faster than any mill ever put in operation.

The close of the present summer season has served to emphasize more clearly than ever the damage to apples—trees and fruit—as a result of infection with spores of the cedar rust. Unfortunately one of the most highly prized of all our fall apples, the Wealthy, seems for some reason or another to be peculiarly susceptible to damage by the rust. Some trees we have noticed during the past few weeks have been well nigh defoliated through infection of the leaves with numerous rust spots, while as a result of this unhealthy condition of the leaves or lungs of the tree the fruit is not more than one-third of its usual size, and scarcely and diseased at that. It begins to look as though, if the owners of Wealthy orchards don't "do" the cedars in the vicinity or spray very carefully, the cedar rust will "do" their orchards. If the rust infestation is as much worse next year than this, as this year's was than last year's, thousands of trees will perish. The problem is one that every orchard owner should look into carefully.

COLDS VANISH.

The Sensible Overnight Remedy For Sensible People.

Perhaps there is no single phase of buttermaking, aside from the utmost cleanliness of all utensils used in the handling of milk, cream and butter, that is so important as the simple matter of cooling all cream before it is added to the cream supply already on hand. The reason for this is that if warm cream is added to the cold there is set up at once a rapid souring and ripening process that is very detrimental to butter quality if it occurs any considerable time before churning. Every buttermaker knows this as a first principle, the A or B of his business. Every farmer should remember it.

The law has much good sense to command it which has recently been enacted in some states, whereby the tuition of country pupils attending nearby town schools is met by the school district in which they live and not by the individual parent or guardian, as heretofore. This arrangement makes possible a fuller utilization of the advantages of good town schools and relieves the country taxpayer of the double tax which he has heretofore paid in the support of the country school and tuition in the town school for those of his children who attended.
